Final Discussions and Conclusions

11. The following points were made in conclusion:

11.1. The Participants of the Workshop acknowledged that the core of the political and economic transformation of any country in transition is the promotion of the private sector, encouraging privatization and creation of favorable environment for the development of entrepreneurship and creation of SMEs.
11.2. There are big regional disparities in the economic development in the region. There is no unique way of elaborating national SME policies; they clearly depend on a number of factors such as national endowment of a country, the degree to which entrepreneurship play in the economy, the existence of entrepreneurial skills while defining supporting instruments for SME development, the economic disparities have to be taken into consideration.

11.3. SMEs face three major obstacles:

- lack of access to finance;
- difficulties in accessing the market, especially in public procurements, export, cross-border contact, global sourcing; and
- red tape (administrative burden).

11.4. Through creation of new jobs, SMEs could successfully contribute to alleviation of poverty and increase of entrepreneurial activity in economically disadvantaged or rural regions and crisis affected areas of the BSEC region.

11.5. Sustainable development is the development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs. In general terms the main components of sustainable development are health, quality of life, equity, integration of environmental and social/cultural considerations into our economically driven world. Developing “sustainable SMEs” requires well-balanced economic, social and environmental aspects and dimensions in development.

11.6. Sustainability remains the global challenge for SMEs in the BSEC region. Sustainable management means an enterprise policy which balances out the business management success, the impact on the environment, as well as the relations of the enterprise with its social environment for a long-term sustainability.

11.7. The model of a sustainable SME is based on an enterprise strategy oriented and focused on:

- sustainability;
- innovative power; and
- competitiveness.

Recommendations

12. The following recommendations were made:

12.1. The main task of the Governments in the BSEC transition economies is to accelerate their political and economic transformation towards the market economies. It requires full-scale implementation of the economic reforms, development of entrepreneurship, formulation of business-friendly government policies and SME support programmes.

12.2. Legislation should be oriented on creation of suitable laws on company creation, acceptable taxation, social security, compliance with the labor and environment requirements. Government policies should be predictable, coherent, consistent and transparent. Governments should take a holistic approach and focus on enterprise promotion as an integral part of the general economic policy.

12.3. Governments/public administrations have to:

- provide administrative support, reduce bureaucracy;
- develop SME support infrastructure;
- develop support in the field of innovation;
- develop institution in obtaining entrepreneurial curricula and skills; and
- include SMEs in delivery of public tasks.

12.4. Corporate social and responsible entrepreneurship becomes one of the most important issues also for SMEs. The Governments of the BSEC region are encouraged to put this issue on the agenda of the economic development.

12.5. Governments are encouraged to develop and promote Public Private Partnership (PPP) by:

- refining its objective;
- testing PPP as one of the several solutions;
- using the best suitable approach in form of cost, handling complexity, own resources;
- thinking of PPP as part of the local and regional development plan.

12.6. BSEC National SME Development Authorities are requested to prepare national reports on the implementation of the BSEC Declaration on “SMEs at the Dawn of the 21st Century” in accordance with the Questionnaire of UNECE sent to the Member States by BSEC PERMIS. The Participants of the Workshop were recommended to review the impact of this Declaration at the next meeting of the BSEC Working Group on SMEs.

12.7. The Participants of the Workshop commend the Representation of the Konrad Adenauer Stiftung in Turkey for its active role in development of the entrepreneurship in the BSEC region and ask to continue support in realization of workshops also in the future. As one of the problems in the development of entrepreneurship is financing SMEs and access to credit, this particular subject should be discussed at the next BSEC-KAS Workshop on SMEs.

13. The concluding remarks were made by Ambassador Tugay ULUÇEVİK, First Deputy Secretary General of BSEC PERMIS who, inter alia, highlighting the project-oriented feature of BSEC said that BSEC had its own Economic Agenda and a project generating mechanism in the form of the Project Development Fund (PDF). He gave information on PDF and the criteria established therein according to which project proposals would be evaluated by BSEC. He encouraged the participants both from the public and private sectors to elaborate and promote projects in the field of SMEs which could duly be presented by the BSEC Member States for evaluation within the mechanism of PDF.
